

EducationUSA Canada Spotlights

Yale School of Management

In New Haven, Connecticut

The mission of the Yale School of Management (SOM) is to educate leaders for business and society. Yale SOM believes that to be an effective leader in an increasingly complex world, you'll need to leverage connections across boundaries of function, industry and region. That's why Yale developed an integrated curriculum that uses diverse disciplines and areas of expertise to better understand management challenges. The school is closely linked to Yale University, giving students the chance to take courses throughout campus, collaborate with Yale scientists on a startup, or even get a second degree in law, environmental management, or medicine. Yale SOM is a founding member of the Global Network for Advanced Management, through which students study with faculty and team with students at 27 other top schools around the world.

The integrated Yale MBA curriculum is designed to teach fundamental business tools and give you the context to understand how your whole organization works and how it impacts larger society. In unique MBA courses taught by multiple professors, you'll learn to take multiple perspectives and draw on multiple business disciplines as you confront a problem.

Watch one of Yale's professors talk about the curriculum.

The Yale SOM student community is ambitious and supportive. Students learn from classmates with a remarkable diversity of backgrounds and aspirations, and develop leadership skills by participating in student clubs and conferences. Learn more by reading student profiles and visiting the MBA blog.

Yale SOM's Career Development Office helps students explore career paths and pursue summer internships and full-time positions, offering one-on-one guidance and a curriculum of workshops. The class of 2016 employment data evinces the many professional successes of Yale's students. Classmates and professors and the close-knit Yale SOM alumni network are also eager to help students achieve their professional goals.

Yale SOM is currently accepting applications for the MBA Class of 2019. Visit the Yale SOM website to take the first steps toward applying.